

Ultra-fast broadband in schools

Will your school be ready?

The Government
is providing 97 percent of schools with access to fibre over the next six years as part of its ultra-fast broadband and rural broadband initiatives.

seminars

The Ministry of Education is holding seminars in August and September 2010 to update schools on what's happening and when – and how this affects them.

Topics will include:

- an update on progress with the Government's fibre rollout
- latest developments on relevant initiatives such as the School Network Upgrade Project, the National Education Network trial extension, ICT PD and TELA - and how these potentially affect your school
- what else we can do to help you get your school ready for the rollout.
